Note A great resource for learning Photoshop and Photoshop Express techniques is Adobe Photoshop Secrets, by Peter Lik and Mike Ball. ## Telling Photoshop What to Do You tell Photoshop what to do by setting up an _action_ or _workflow._ Think of actions as if they were script for your computer—a series of steps that you want your software to complete. Photoshop has many actions, many of which are built-in to the program. However, you can also build custom actions in Photoshop. An action works the same way that a script works on a Macintosh. You set up a script, add values to the script, and then run it. When you run an action, Photoshop runs the script in the order you set it up. You tell Photoshop what to do with each action by setting up _commands_ —simple instructions for what to do when an action is run. Because actions can be scripted in such a way, you can make your own actions. You can also have Photoshop make custom actions for you that automate tasks for you. You can also add parameters (called _contexts_) to your actions. The parameters control what appears on the screen when you run an action. When you change parameters in an action, Photoshop remembers that Barcelona vs Real Madrid: Schalke deny Arsenal move for Thomas Muller Schalke have said they have turned down a £34million bid from Arsenal for World Cup star Thomas Muller as reported by the Daily Star. The 18-year-old attacker is reported to be the Premier League club's first summer signing and may cost them up to £36million. But Gunners director Edu Seppola has hit back and rubbished Schalke's claim. "I have been alerted by media reports that Arsenal are planning on signing Thomas Muller. I would like to say that there is no truth in that," he told Sky Sports. "There was a list of transfer targets that was circulated among all the clubs that we can see on the internet. "While we are of course interested in transfers to strengthen our team, we are committed to building our own squad. We don't have any targets lined up." Earlier in the week, the Gunners had met with Schalke president Clemens Tonnies but the pair have refused to comment on a potential deal. The transfer would be a major coup for Arsene Wenger, who has been linked with a number of players in the past, but he would be expected to pay a world record fee for the young German. The Gunners are also interested in Real Madrid star Fabio Coentrao and Bayern Munich's Mats Hummels.
