Q: How to calculate this limit? $\lim_{x \rightarrow +\infty}$

$$\frac{x^2(\sqrt[3]{x} - 1) - \sqrt[3]{x^3} + 3}{2x^2}$$

So i don't know what to do with this question, i know i have to use L'Hospital's rule, but it seems there is a remainder after applying the rule and there is also a $+3$ there.

A: It could be, but if it isn't, it is a good chance that you are doing algebra incorrectly. Recall that $x^{1/3}$ and x^2 are both positive and therefore $\sqrt[3]{x}$ is positive as well; since -1 is less than 1 it's apparent that the expression isn't negative. Then if you use L'Hopital's rule appropriately, you will get ∞ published: 12 Sep 2009 views: 2973 Remember I mentioned that the naming of generics in .NET is counterintuitive and that the designers could have done a much better job of explaining why they did it? You can't blame them for not giving a reason because they were overloaded existance of tye's._ why that reason. So why did they design it that way? In the comments of my first video addressing this subject I get the question of why you don't want to have to specify all of the type parameters so you can call the constructor with only one argument. To avoid this so-called "unintended OOP behavior" which Microsoft refers to in the video, you need to create a constructor in your generic class that takes all of the type parameters. That way the compiler will be able to recognize that you are making a valid ... published:26 Dec 2012 views:2366 Targeting.NET 3.5 SP1 is a great way to get the best out of the latest and greatest features in the.NET Framework.In this video we look at how to use generics to reduce the amount of code and improve performance in a type-
