A range of diagnostic tests is available for the laboratory detection of internal parasites of the domestic cat. Most tests focus on the detection of adult nematodes; however, there are several tests which can be used for the diagnosis of adult cestodes and coccidia, as well as for the detection of developmental stages of the nematodes. In this chapter, we outline several tests which can be used to examine faecal samples from the domestic cat and to identify parasitic developmental stages. In addition, the main tests for both adult and developmental stages of nematodes are summarised, along with their advantages and disadvantages.US warplanes have bombed a key government target in Libya's largest city, Misrata, a day after a UN envoy said his country was ready to "compromise" on its demands and drop the airport siege on the contested western city. Despite the new attempt to reach a truce, continued fighting raged in both Misrata and the eastern Libyan city of Ajdabiya, despite intensified air strikes by Nato warplanes in an attempt to stem the rebels' advance. "The situation is dangerous

GP registrars: a review of the literature. In health policy and service research, the increasing number of nurse practitioners taking on the role of primary care physician can be viewed as one of the solutions to the current shortages of physicians in some areas. As the literature about nurse practitioner primary care physician practice is limited in comparison to the literature about general practice, this review aims to identify and critically appraise the quality of the literature about nurse practitioner primary care physician practice. A desk-based search was undertaken using combinations of the following key words 'nurse practitioner', 'general practitioner registrar', 'primary care physician', 'general practice', 'gp' and 'nurse practitioner' in reference lists from published English language research studies and reviews. The review of nine English language studies found that while an increasing number of general practice registrars were identified, the literature about their workload, working conditions and prescribing was limited. Therefore, there is an urgent need for further research about nurse practitioner primary care physician practice in general practice, to improve policies that will facilitate the safe implementation of this role.

Grisly murder: Lakhpatrao's family in Nagpur Last updated on: February 14, 2013 19:18 IST The family of an ex-Congress legislator from Maharashtra, who was murdered in September 2011, is observing fast on Republic Day every year and has announced a reward of Rs 10 lakh for anyone providing information that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the accused. Lakhpatrao Mhalgaonkar (60), a former state legislator in the Nagpur rural assembly was stabbed to death while returning home from work on a scooter by two men. "On Republic Day every year, we do fast for his soul," said one of his sons, Ramchandra Mhalgaonkar, who is a councillor in the municipal corporation. He said the accused have been identified but were still roaming freely. "A reward of Rs 10 lakh has been announced for anyone providing information leading to the arrest and conviction of the culprits," he said. A joint investigation team has been formed by the state Crime Branch, CBI and the Latur SP to trace the killers of Mhalgaonkar, who was working as a state legislator in the rural assembly. His son claimed
