Musings by Rob Do whatever it takes to build business Last year was a challenging year for many businesses. Undoubtedly, you were playing the catch-up game. The best way to get ahead this year is to plan ahead. Build a well-developed cash flow plan that clearly reflects a good balance between the short, medium and long-term. The longer time frames enable you to build a solid foundation and identify future opportunities. It is sometimes difficult to identify the opportunity, and there can be a lot of uncertainty as to when it will manifest. By getting the growth plans worked out, you will have a better opportunity to gauge how to react and react quickly. The growth plans are typically a long way down the road, but they can have a decisive influence in deciding your future direction and strategy. In conjunction with your cash flow plan, you should look at the following factors: What future activities will deliver future cash inflows. What are the required capital outlays to fund future cash flows. 6d1f23a050
